

As extrication operations take place it happens frequently that sharp and edges and surfaces faces threat for both rescuer as victim. Safety is a crucial point in our objectives and should never be compromised on. In further addition to ensure safety at all times there are protection covers to insulate sharp and protruding edges and surfaces. The protection cover set is suitable for every car and available in two sets. A and B posts covers are equipped with Velcro. Large and small protection covers are suited with magnets for easy deployment as they automatically stick to the body work of the car.
